

What is ClientPlaza?

When you need appliance repair or an auto mechanic or an accountant, go to ClientPlaza and tell us what you want.

ClientPlaza alerts local companies who do what you want. One of those companies realizes they can serve you well in your time frame, and calls you right away.

Tell ClientPlaza where, when, and anything else that's important to you about the Service you need.

Easy.

Get a call from a trusted Service Provider who already knows what you want, and can provide it.

ClientPlaza trusts its Service Providers and the quality of their work, so you can, too. Service Providers don't see your identity until after they commit to calling you. If you don't like that Service Provider (it happens occasionally), another will call ASAP.

ClientPlaza is better than googling, then evaluating a million and five search results without enough information. The place that can serve you best might be buried on Page 12. Even if you see it, can you recognize it from the tiny description that's designed to be as broad as possible? Probably not.

Why do people use Google for this? Because it used to be your only option.

People love ClientPlaza because they easily get what they want.

Service Providers love ClientPlaza...

...because they only pay when they actually get a new Client. They develop new business easily, cheaper, and with more precise budget control and accurate customer acquisition costs. And they don't have to pay for a mere lead, or for advertising, or AdWords clicks that might produce nothing.
